General Information

The property enjoys a pleasant setting within sight of the architecturally impressive St Johns Church. Approximately 5 minutes walk to the town centre and you have access to a superb range of shops, restaurants, cafes, bars and being the home of Greene King, some excellent public houses.

Bury St. Edmunds is a thriving market town offering a wealth of historical buildings and gardens, cultural facilities and first-rate modern amenities. The A14 can be easily accessed and provides a fast route to Ipswich, Cambridge and London via the M11. The town railway station is also within comfortable walking distance.

As previously mentioned, the house is of the Victorian period and whilst most purchasers will wish to carry out elements of updating and redecorating, there are many fine features retained within this property including, open fireplaces, brick pavement flooring, sash windows and stripped pine doors. There is the benefit of gas central heating and a new Vaillant combination boiler was installed in 2017.

As you step inside the house, onto the brick pavement floor, you are immediately struck by the sense of a bygone era. The sitting room has a lovely cosy feel to it and as you move through into the dining area there is enough space for a good sized table, providing the perfect place to entertain friends. The kitchen and adjoining lean-to garden room are certainly in need of updating but offer a blank canvas and a superb opportunity for someone to create something of their own design. The cellar is currently used for storage, but again this area could be converted into a home office or perhaps a snug.

On the first floor, there are two double bedrooms, with bedroom one still boasting the original cast fireplace. The bathroom is of a good size, featuring both a bath and separate shower cubicle.

To the rear of the property is a pleasant enclosed garden – the perfect place to relax with a glass of wine and enjoy a spot of alfresco dining.
