Peninsula

Freston is a small village which is the first as you drive up onto the peninsula. It is nestled in the countryside however stretches down to the waterfront also. Along with the rest of the award winning peninsula from Shotley through to Holbrook offers a multitude of award winning public houses & restaurants, several marinas & clubhouses, an active theatre company, football team, bowls club, walking club, several takeaways, post offices and local corner shops as well as a co-op, two butchers & a hairdressers. Being the nearest to Ipswich it offers a slice of village life with a number of the conveniences of a town.

Bus stop within short walking distance and both the end of the peninsula and Ipswich town centre & waterfront just a bus ride or short drive away. The public house, waterfront and Stoke Sailing Club, Landmark Trust Freston Tower, church and infamous bluebell woods are equally a short walk away and Holbrook Academy and the Suffolk Food Hall is a bus ride or short drive away. There are twin doctors' surgeries at Shotley & Holbrook & a few lively Facebook groups for all peninsula news & free site.
