Chain-free, turn-key and located in Ponthenri! 1a Myrtle Hill has undergone a huge transformation by the current vendor, from a derelict building with concrete floors and bare-brick walls into what you see now: a modern four-bedroom property. From the floor to the ceiling, everything is new and finished to a very good standard, making this an ideal property for someone who wants a fuss-free, hassle-free home with no work needed. Offering allocated parking spaces and a larger-than-average garden, along with another bonus, a basement, ideal for extra storage or to convert for extra accommodation.

Accommodation comprises: Hallway, spacious lounge/diner, understairs storage cupboard, kitchen, utility room, landing, three bedrooms, bathroom and fourth bedroom situated in the attic space. Externally, to the rear, this garden has views of the local countryside from all levels and can be enjoyed from a raised decked balcony with wooden steps leading to a low-maintenance area laid with decorative chippings and access to the basement level. Wooden steps lead to the remainder of the garden, laid to grass, and there is gated pedestrian access to the side leading to the car-parking area.

Ponthenri is a small rural village in Wales, located in the centre of the Gwendraeth Valley, halfway between the towns of Carmarthen and Llanelli. There are no shops now, although the village has one pub (The Baltic Inn) and a social club. The majority of amenities are located in the neighbouring village of Pontyates. Pontheri offers peace in rural surroundings but is only a short drive from the hustle and bustle of town life.
