The Agent that goes the Extra Mile

We Say...

Craig y Môr, Llansteffan

Some houses are built in a place. Craig y Môr, "Rock of the Sea", belongs to one. Standing in the heart of Llansteffan since the late 18th century, this handsome Georgian former rectory has watched over village life for more than 250 years, its windows framing the very views that define this celebrated corner of the Carmarthenshire coast: the Towy Estuary and the ancient silhouette of Llansteffan Castle.

Sympathetically renovated by the current owners, and unlisted, Craig y Môr pairs the poise of fine Georgian architecture with the comfort of an exceptional modern family home. Working period fireplaces and two log burners warm the three reception rooms, a sitting room, dining room and family room, the latter flowing from a welcoming kitchen-diner with adjoining utility room and a downstairs w.c. Four double bedrooms are served by two family bathrooms, including a principal suite with dressing room.

What truly distinguishes Craig y Môr is its setting and walkable lifestyle. Set within approximately 1.3 acres of mature gardens and grounds, a rare privilege in the heart of the village, it enjoys an unexpected sense of privacy while every amenity sits on the doorstep, from the Village Stores and pubs to the beach and castle.

A large terrace commands panoramic estuary and castle views, ideal for outdoor dining. An extensive garden outbuilding offers potential for stabling or other uses, complemented by an attached workshop, ample storage, and parking for five or more vehicles.

Craig y Môr offers a lifestyle rarely found: Georgian grandeur, the tranquillity of substantial private grounds, and the convenience of one of West Wales' most sought-after coastal villages. Homes of this age, stature and setting rarely come to market, Craig y Môr is one of those rare opportunities.
