

A stunning five-bedroom stone-built family home with a detached studio. The property dates back in parts to the 1750s and has been tastefully extended and renovated throughout to provide practical and spacious family accommodation in a village location close to excellent links.

Oakley House has been extended and refurbished to suit the needs of contemporary family living. The property is tucked away down a one-way lane in Ambrosden whilst being a short drive to amenities and commuter links to London.

Set back from the road the property is approached from a gravelled driveway that can accommodate parking for a number of vehicles.

Enter the property through a stone-built attractive porch, which sets the scene for this stylish period home.

You can leave your muddy boots and coats in the porch and be welcomed into the bespoke kitchen/breakfast room.

Crafted with an eye for fine detail the kitchen has plenty of units with Corian work surfaces, a Franke double sink, and the ultimate Bertazonni Italia Range Cooker.

The contemporary kitchen room worthy of any aspiring chef benefits from an island where you can sit and enjoy breakfast, the double aspect allows it to be flooded with natural light making it the ideal space to socialize with friends and family. This room is large enough to hold a full-sized dining table and chairs and has a wood-burning stove.

Double doors take you into the open-plan sitting room, which leads through to the garden room. The flow from the kitchen into this vast space lends itself to the perfect place to host a party.

The garden room is worthy of special merit with its high vaulted ceiling, oak flooring throughout, and an abundance of windows with patio double doors leading to the rear BBQ area.

Leading off the kitchen is the family room with wood burner, oak flooring, and calming decor which is the place to enjoy a good book or cosy up on winter evenings.

To the rear of the property, there is a functional utility room, a study, and a cloakroom fitted with a shower steam room.

To the first floor, there are four generous double bedrooms, the master is particularly appealing with its four large windows and an en-suite shower room. The family bathroom is a "wow" with its roll-top bath, skylights, and wooden flooring.

To the second floor is a large room offering flexibility for a fifth bedroom or to be used as a study. There is also a large storage space.

To the front of the property, there is a separate stone-built building that can offer a variety of uses (subject to planning) There is a mezzanine floor above the shower room.

The back garden has been fully landscaped with Indian sandstone, mature shrubs, tree's and a lovely terraced area to enjoy a beer or a glass of wine. You will be the envy of all your friends when you host your BBQ using the bespoke outdoor granite kitchen from Alfresco. There is a potting shed for the keen gardener and a wood store.
