The interior design is something to behold with a clever balance of modern design and historic charm, with the wonderfully flexible accommodation comprising: Vestibule entrance porch, living room with log burner, formal dining room, spacious kitchen diner with a quarry tiled floor and a rear hallway with pantry leading to a separate utility and guest cloakroom. Not forgetting the charming garden room accessed from the rear patio. The first floor boasts three double bedrooms and a striking period style bathroom with roll top bath and separate shower. Stairs then rise directly in to the converted loft space which is used as a study area and sitting room. Externally there is an impossibly beautiful, south facing, landscaped rear garden with patio seating areas, garden cabin, pergola and ornamental arched walkways all interspersed with the most lavishly stocked and carefully manicured beds and borders.
