other original details. The combination of scale, history and versatility makes this a truly unusual home, with the opportunity to update and personalise the accommodation while retaining the wonderful character of this historic Grade II listed building.

Outside

The property is approached via a tarmac driveway providing parking for several vehicles, leading to this impressive Grade II listed Gothic manor house. The house enjoys approximately half an acre of established and beautifully mature gardens, offering a wonderful sense of privacy and seclusion. The gardens are predominantly laid to lawn and are framed by a variety of mature hedging, established trees, shrubs and ornamental planting, creating a series of attractive areas to enjoy throughout the seasons.

The grounds extend away from the property and take full advantage of the far-reaching views across the surrounding countryside, with the elevated position providing a particularly attractive outlook. Mature evergreen trees, including striking tall conifers, provide structure and screening, while a variety of established trees and shrubs give the gardens an almost parkland feel. There is ample space for outdoor entertaining, recreation and further landscaping, together with a number of established planting areas and garden features.
