Location

Situated on the outskirts of the centrally located and convenient village of Leedstown. To the North can be accessed the A30 as well as the major towns of Camborne and Redruth, to the East is the nearby market town of Helston widely regarded as the gateway to the Lizard Peninsula. A southerly direction will take you through nearby, Townshend, Marazion and Penzance, where your journey could end at lovely Land's End. Whilst to the west lies Hayle, St Ives and the spectacular North Coast famed for it's surf conditions. Leedstown offers a primary school and traditional public house, with nearby Townshend benefitting from an excellent and well stocked farm shop. There are a plethora of lovely rural walks in the area including nearby Crenver Grove with the property also being near to the historic Godolphin Estate with acres of land and a host of pretty walks and the site where the first episode of Poldark was filmed.
