BADSEY

Badsey is a charming and well-connected village in the Vale of Evesham, known for its fertile countryside and long heritage of market gardening, including renowned local asparagus and plums. The village blends historic character—centred around the 12th-century St James' Church with its distinctive Norman features—with practical amenities such as a primary school, village store with post office, butchers and two traditional pubs. With scenic rural surroundings and easy access to mainline rail services via nearby Evesham and Honeybourne, Badsey offers peaceful village living with excellent connectivity.
