Temple Cloud is a small, well-established rural village located in the Chew Valley within the Bath & North East Somerset authority area. Positioned along the A37, the village lies approximately 10 miles south of Bristol and around 8-9 miles south-west of Bath, making it a convenient location for those seeking countryside living with access to nearby cities. The surrounding landscape is characterised by open fields and rolling countryside, with the Mendip Hills Area of Outstanding Natural Beauty close by.

Despite its modest size, Temple Cloud provides a range of everyday amenities that support village life. These include a local convenience store and petrol station for daily essentials, a Post Office, and a GP surgery serving both the village and surrounding area. The Temple Inn, a traditional public house with food and accommodation, acts as a social focal point for residents and visitors alike. Additional small eateries and takeaways add to the local offering.

Education is catered for locally, with Cameley Church of England Primary School serving families in the village and nearby communities. Community life is further supported by a village hall, which hosts events, meetings and activities throughout the year, reinforcing the strong local network.

Temple Cloud is well placed for outdoor recreation, with easy access to countryside walking and cycling routes, the Mendip Hills, and Chew Valley Lake, which offers opportunities for sailing, birdwatching and leisure activities. These surroundings make the village particularly attractive to those who enjoy an active outdoor lifestyle.

Transport connections are a key advantage. Regular bus services operate along the A37, linking Temple Cloud with Bristol, Bath, Wells and Shepton Mallet, while road access is straightforward for commuters and visitors travelling by car.

Overall, Temple Cloud offers a balance of rural tranquillity and practical convenience.
