Entering the flat, a welcoming hallway offers space for coats, shoes and a console, setting the tone for a home that feels both practical and airy. The dual-aspect living/dining room is the star: broad glazing draws in sunlight and slides open to the south-facing balcony, perfect for morning coffee, after-work unwinding, or fireworks over the Wharf.

The separate kitchen has ample worktop space and room to cook properly, with scope to reconfigure or upgrade to your taste. Both bedrooms are comfortable doubles, positioned away from the living space for privacy.

The block is lift-served and benefits from a concierge, secure entry and well-maintained communal areas. Ex-local high-rises are popular for their solid construction, generous room sizes and strong natural light, and this apartment delivers on all three.

On Jodrell Road, you're adjacent to Victoria Park—think morning runs, canal-side walks and summer picnics. The independent shops, coffee spots and pubs of Victoria Park Village and Roman Road are close by, while Hackney Wick's creative scene and waterside bars are within easy reach.

Excellent links across East and Central London via nearby options such as Bow Road Underground, Mile End Underground and Bow Church DLR (for Canary Wharf/City connections), plus bus routes along Roman Road/Old Ford Road. Cycle paths and canal towpaths offer relaxed commutes by bike.
