Externally, the home enjoys a good garden space and field views, whilst inside the expansive kitchen-dining area is the main focus of the house – with a full-width section of glazed bi-fold doors flooding the designer fittings, surfaces and ironmongery with natural light – making this the perfect space for entertaining in the summer months. Fitted with a range of quality branded appliances, the kitchen also connects to a handy utility room for all practicalities, with direct access to an extra-length integrated garage. The ground level accommodation also has an impressive living room and dedicated study.

Upstairs, your eyes naturally lead you towards the breath-taking master bedroom, which is complemented by a dressing area and a sensational en-suite bathroom fitted with sleek contemporary sanitaryware. This floor's additional double bedroom, single room and stylish family bathroom are complemented by two further bedrooms and a luxury shower room on the second floor.

If you prefer a metropolitan evening out, Chelmsford's thriving centre is easily reachable from home. Here, the city's restaurants, eateries and bars are enough to satisfy every palette and occasion – from well-known quality franchises to cutting-edge artisan cuisine, friendly family bistros, intimate coffee houses, lively cocktail lounges and fine dining in exclusive surroundings. You'd perhaps be wise to make a whole day of it within the city's pedestrianised shopping district and the upmarket lanes, walks and attractions of the Bond Street retail development, where you'll discover an array of specialist retailers, designer shops and familiar high street names – including a large flagship John Lewis store – catering to every style, taste and budget. Computer generated images have been used to provide an illustration of how the new build home could look.
