LOCATION

Okehampton is a busy market town in West Devon situated at the northern edge of Dartmoor just off the A30. The oldest building is the castle which dates back to the Domesday Book and sits in a picturesque setting on a wooded spur above the West Okement River. Known as the walking centre of Devon, visitors can discover Dartmoor as well as the Victorian shopping arcade, a museum and a lovely park. Schools in the town include Okehampton Primary School and Okehampton College. The town is served by various bus services to local towns and also to Exeter. The Cathedral City of Exeter lies c.23 miles to the east via the A30 connecting with the M5 Junction 31. Tavistock is c.16 miles to the south. Notably train services via The Dartmoor Line have reopened after nearly 50 years, offering daily passenger rail services between Okehampton and Exeter.
