COMMUNAL GARDENS AND GROUNDS

There are approximately 6 acres of gardens with formal lawned areas and wooded paths. There are many large well-established trees, some of them specimen trees. There is a Giant Redwood and a large Podocarpus which is 2.5 meters in girth. There are three Japanese trees below the lawn Chamaecyparis pisifera (Savara Cypress), Thujopsis Dolabrata (Hiba Tree) and Chamaecyparis Pisifera (Savara Cypress). The planting includes several species of ferns and wild flowers including native bluebells, wood anemones, pink campion, foxgloves and enchaters nightshade in the Spring. There are well established rhododendrons and camellias that bring colour and scent in the Spring and early Summer. In the summer moths offer hydrangea, fuchsia and crocosmia to name a few. There is a pond providing a habitat for frogs and toads. The herons are frequently seen visiting the garden and the view from the main reception room often captures the buzzards that live in this area. There are also often sightings of badgers and foxes and occasionally deer can be seen in the paddock below the house.
