Chepstow Road comprises a detached bungalow, believed to date from the 1940's and occupies a pleasant position within large private gardens in this sought-after residential area of Caldicot. The impressive property has been updated over recent years and offers comfortable, flexible family accommodation with the added bonus of an annexe and detached garage, along with large gardens and very generous parking. The property would either work very well as a single-family dwelling with guest wing, two-family accommodation, or possibly someone wishing to have a home office environment.

Caldicot itself is a historic town with good road links to nearby Chepstow and the M48 motorway, as well as towards Newport and Cardiff. The surrounding countryside of Monmouthshire is unspoilt with lots of scenic walks and countryside pursuits, and Caldicot itself benefits from a historic Castle and grounds as well as a good range of amenities to include primary and secondary schools and shops such as Aldi and Asda.
