OUTSIDE

A brick-paved driveway provides parking for 2 vehicles to the front. Both front and back gardens have been designed for minimal maintenance. To the front, a variegated pittosporum hedge protects a rose bed thickly underplanted with hardy geraniums, native violets and alliums, cyclamen and polyanthus. Hydrangeas and a yellow-flowered camellia mark the boundary of the property. A paved path leads round the house into a workspace area which includes a greenhouse sited next to the outside tap and a wooden shed for garden tools and sundries. The path continues into the back garden, which is accessed by grassed steps opposite the doors from the lounge. The right-hand planting consists of trees and shrubs typical of Japan: enkianthus, miscanthus, nandina, camellias, pittosporum, flowering cherries and acers, which give both autumn and winter colour. Black and yellow-stemmed clump-forming bamboos add to the privacy to be enjoyed from a seat on a small patio area. The left-hand planting is more English in feel, with clematis and honeysuckle clothing the fences, roses, hardy geraniums and fuchsias in the beds, a crab apple tree and fruiting loganberries. Between the two different areas is a rowan tree bearing pink berries in autumn.
