SUMMARY

A substantial and generously proportioned, classically designed semi-detached house understood to have been built in the 1930s. Since 2012 major works have included upgrading of the accommodation particularly with remodelling to create one large kitchen/dining room, at first floor level reconfiguration to provide a large family bathroom & a new roof was fitted in 2018 with a 15 year guarantee. The property has the benefit of gas fired central heating installed in 2013. The property retains a variety of period features such as the impressive floorboards professionally stripped & polished which run throughout much of the property.

LOCATION

Found in this prime, popular, established residential area of Hartley bordering on Mannamead, with a good variety of local services & amenities to hand. The position is convenient for access into the city & close by connection to major routes in other directions.

ACCOMMODATION

The accommodation on the ground floor with porch, spacious reception hall with timber floorboards, a cupboard under the stairs housing meters, a generous sized front set lounge with wide window, fireplace, wood burning stove & slate hearth. Twin sliding doors open to a large open-plan light & airy fitted kitchen/dining room with a spacious central island with integrated appliances including a 5 ring gas hob, contemporary belfast style sink & features such as a seat built into the former chimney breast. A useful walk-in larder with window to the side. From the rear, a lean-to sun room/office with windows to the side & rear, door opening to the rear garden. Off the kitchen, access to a good-sized separate utility room with spaces & plumbing for washing machine, tumble-dryer etc & housing the Vaillant gas fired boiler which services the central heating & domestic hot water.
