South Lodge is located in one of the most desirable areas of Oxfordshire, Boars Hill. Built in 1906 of natural Cotswold stone with natural stone slate roofs and stone walls 0.5m thick, the property was formally part of Berkeley Castle, and the original part of the home was built for Lord Berkeley by the renowned architect Sir Ernest George. The property benefits from two separate electric gated driveways, four garages, parking for at least ten vehicles, a variety of buildings and 1.2 acres of mature and landscaped gardens. South Lodge is a five bedroom beautiful family home with wonderful views of the grounds, a two storey office building which could be converted into separate living accommodation, a cottage with two bedrooms, two bathrooms, kitchen and a lounge with a terrace that overlooks the gardens. There's also a stunning indoor heated pool with shower facilities, stables that are currently used as a storage space and a summerhouse in the gardens which creates the perfect getaway.

GROUND FLOOR

The ground floor of South Lodge is stunning. As you enter the property into the hallway you are greeted with an imported Austrian oak staircase that leads you to the first floor of the home. The ground floor is made up of three reception rooms; a drawing room, a study and a formal dining room that leads you to the recently renovated kitchen and breakfast area. There is also a utility room and a boiler room on the ground floor. There are a variety of bay windows on the ground floor where you can sit and take in the breathtaking views of the grounds.

FIRST FLOOR

The first floor offers five bedrooms, of which the principal suite is truly impressive and offers fantastic views of the gardens, and the large windows in the home allow the natural light to flood through the property. There is a guest suite which benefits from an en suite and the further three bedrooms have access to the family bathroom.

SELLER INSIGHT

“ This exquisite gracious home is located in Boars Hill in the midst of beautiful undulating Oxfordshire countryside and yet is conveniently close to the centre of the city.

The property, built in 1906, was part of the Berkeley Estate and is surrounded by its own private acreage. It was purchased by the father of the present owner in 1929 and has been a much valued and treasured family home since that time, with this being the first instance of it coming to the market in 92 years.

A timeless house full of charm and elegance and, despite the certain formality of the house, it has been, throughout its history, first and foremost a home for family living. Throughout its years it has been beautifully maintained whilst, at the same time, it has embraced modern times and contains the luxuries and comforts essential for today's contemporary lifestyles. Each room in the house retains its original character, and natural brightness floods throughout offering a generous welcoming ambience. In addition, there are several outbuildings which have been utilised endlessly throughout the years for a host of varying activities.

The gardens are quite stunning containing a mixture of mature trees and shrubs sitting within a beautiful lawn. Of course, utilising both house and garden provide the perfect backdrop for entertaining and there have been many such occasions. Several sizeable functions have been held when a marquee has been erected in the garden for many special wedding receptions.

Although beautifully tucked away, shops are located very close, and walking into the local countryside has been a much loved pastime for the owners. There is an outstanding choice of both state and independent school within easy reach, alongside access to a wide range of sport and leisure opportunities. It is just four miles into the city of Oxford for brilliant architecture, theatres, galleries and exceptional restaurants. In addition, both road and rail links to all parts of the land are efficient and, with the new railway station nearing completion, journeys into the capital will be very quick.

It is time for the owners to move to a smaller property and, after so many years living in this brilliant house, it will be a wrench when they move. However, it has been such a happy home and a boxful of joyful memories will accompany the owners when they say farewell.

GROOMS LODGE

The Grooms Lodge is a beautiful recent addition to the property and has a very contemporary feel with a balcony which offers views of the gardens and the surrounding countryside. The cottage is a self-contained two bedroom property with bathrooms, a kitchen and a stunning lounge area.

OFFICE SPACE

South Lodge also benefits from a large two storey office building with a shower room and WC which could easily be converted into separate living quarters if desired.

OUTSIDE

The outside of this property is truly phenomenal. There is a stable block which is currently used as a storage area/workshop, an indoor heated pool with a shower and changing facilities, a summerhouse and 1.2 acres of beautiful manicured gardens with a great entertainment terrace.

LOCAL AREA

The location of the property has much to recommend. Located in Boars Hill, a prime location in the UK and just 4 miles from Oxford, the property is quiet, safe, secluded and is surrounded by country walks and actually benefits from 10 acres of private woodland for Boars Hills residents only. The Fox Inn is just a short walk from the home and some of the best schools in the country are located in close proximity to the property.
