The Property

53A St Ann Street is a well-presented two-bedroom terraced townhouse set on a quiet medieval street in Salisbury. The property combines period character with a modern, well-executed interior.

Beyond the front door you are welcomed into an open-plan kitchen, dining and living space. Sash windows provide good natural light highlighting a carefully considered mix of materials and finishes. The bespoke kitchen, fitted by Jones, forms the clear focal point, with quartz worktops and high-gloss cabinetry with integrated appliances. The wood-effect ceramic tiles introduce warmth while maintaining a clean modern design.

A nod to the building's past as a former bakery adds character and charm to the frontage. Inside, the property has been refurbished by local firm JMPC, with an emphasis on solid joinery, detailed woodwork and neutral colour scheme. A timber staircase leads to the first floor, where there is a second bedroom, currently used as a sitting room overlooking St Ann Street. This floor also includes the main bathroom, fitted with ceramic floor tiles, metro wall tiling and a white suite comprising a bath with shower over, basin and WC.

The top floor is dedicated to the principal bedroom, set within the eaves. The room provides a sense of privacy and separation from the rest of the house. An ensuite shower room completes this level, finished in a style consistent with the rest of the property.

The house forms part of a terrace of period properties and is within easy walking distance of Salisbury city centre.
