A beautiful, cosy, and much-loved village cottage in the picturesque East Yorkshire village of Lund. Dating back to the 1700s, this former post office has been meticulously and intelligently restored by its current owners, transforming it into a wonderfully warm and welcoming home. From its charming low ceilings and exposed wooden beams to its prime location fronting the village green, every detail exudes character and a deep sense of belonging, making it an idyllic retreat.

The extensive renovations undertaken by the current owners showcase their dedication to preserving its historic charm while integrating modern comforts. Nearly everything has been recently replaced, from the bespoke, hand-crafted kitchen with its stunning Farrow & Ball painted cabinets and oak countertops to the luxurious modern bathroom. Thoughtful additions include two quality multi-fuel burners, recently replaced flooring throughout, and complete redecoration, ensuring the cottage is not only aesthetically pleasing but also incredibly comfortable and efficient.

Beyond the charming interior, the westerly-facing rear garden has been beautifully landscaped with a split-level paved patio and vibrant borders, offering a continuous display of colour and a perfect spot for enjoying the summer sun. With gated parking to the side and located in a village renowned for its strong community spirit and array of activities, this cottage truly is a unique and inviting opportunity to embrace village life.

LOCATION

Lund is one of the most sought after villages in East Yorkshire being located between Beverley and Driffield and convenient for access to both towns, and only about 24 miles from historic York. This ideal location provides easy access to the Yorkshire Moors and the lovely East Coast beaches.

The village itself benefits from a number of cottage style properties with the highly regarded Wellington public house/restaurant being one of its focal points. The village also offers a school pick up point for Lockington Primary School, Longcroft School in Beverley and the nearby highly regarded private schools Hymers College and Pocklington School.

The property is situated in the heart of the village and opposite the village green.
