Old School Yard is an exciting regeneration of land previously occupied by St. Nicholas School and is designed as a flagship development of the area.

The development is undertaken by Fordwater Homes Limited, a collection of very well-regarded local developers, who wish to undertake a sustainable redevelopment of a previous school site.

Old School Yard is simply quite stunning and offers an eclectic mix of individually designed residencies that will surely meet all housing requirements.

In the first phase of the scheme, nine properties will be released, being plots 8-16, offering a range of two and three bedroom options along with studies and balconies to some properties.

Completion of phase one is expected around August/September 2024, during which period two further phased releases will be announced.

Prices start at just £275,000 and early interest should be registered with ourselves as sole selling agents.

LOCATION

Situated midway along St Nicholas Road, next to an area of public open space, this former school site is being redeveloped to create a completely unique living space offering a range of contemporary homes and apartments.

The extremely popular leisure destination of Flemingate is only a stone's throw away and offers an array of high street shops, highly popular restaurants and its own multi-screen cinema.

The historical centre of this ever popular Georgian market town is only a very short walk from Flemingate, making The Old School Yard an outstanding residential destination.
