LOCATION

North Frodingham is a charming East Yorkshire village that extends along both sides of the B1249, ideally positioned between Beeford (approximately 3 miles away) and the bustling market town of Driffield (around 6 miles away). Offering the perfect balance of rural living and convenience, the village enjoys easy access to the beautiful East Yorkshire coastline, while Hull (approximately 19 miles) and the historic market town of Beverley (around 12 miles) are both within comfortable commuting distance.

The village benefits from a range of everyday amenities, including a traditional public house, a garage with petrol station and convenience store, a church, and a well-regarded primary school. For a wider choice of shopping, leisure, and educational facilities, the nearby villages of Beeford and Brandesburton, along with Driffield, provide an excellent range of additional services.
