The Property

Occupying an idyllic and secluded rural setting within the parish of Semer, The Hollies is a 3/4-bedroom detached bungalow which was built in 1987. The bungalow is strategically placed within its private grounds, taking full advantage of the far-reaching views over most of its grounds to the south, with rolling countryside beyond towards Whatfield village.

Recently, the current owners have made numerous modifications, which includes the removal of the original dividing wall to the kitchen and former dining room, creating an open plan kitchen / breakfast / dining room. The kitchen, utility room, and all bathrooms have also been stylishly updated.

Further fundamental improvements include partitioning the original central hall to form a study / bedroom four, and the instillation of a new oil-fired heating system. Planning permission has also been granted for significant extension and remodelling, as outlined below (Agents Note).

The central entrance hall essentially divides the accommodation into two distinct areas, where the three main double bedrooms are to the west. The main reception room is to the rear, with open fire and triple aspect views over the principal gardens and grounds.

Outside, the gardens are a key feature, consisting of more formal areas surrounding the bungalow to all sides, with a feature brick and flint wall defining the western boundary, which runs parallel to a minor country lane (Ash Street). A driveway to the north offers ample off-road parking, which gives access to detached double garage with power and light connected.

With numerous feature trees and a small orchard, the formal gardens back onto a level grazing paddock (about 1.2 acres) to the south-east, which is ideal for small scale equestrian grazing. Further outbuildings include a blockwork stable and an adjacent tack room / store. In all, the property covers some 2.2 acres.
