

Prince Of Wales Road
Dorchester

Set within central Dorchester, is this large freehold semi-detached property. Prince of Wales Road is a well-proportioned character property, offered with no forward chain. The imposing building was constructed in the late Victorian era, likely as Director's housing for the Eldridge Pope Brewery originally located behind the property. With the original brewery now reimagined as a large leisure development, with shops and restaurants, this places the impressive building in a prime location for Dorchester amenities. Arranged as four self-contained flats, each with their own entrance and no internal communal areas, this building presents an ideal opportunity for investors or owner-occupiers. Externally the property benefits from off road parking for up to eight cars and a generously sized south-westerly facing rear garden. Throughout the accommodation, each flat has a kitchen equipped with an oven and a range of wall and base level units. Each flat has access to allocated parking at the front and the rear of the property.
