Summary

Branksome Cliff occupies the most stunning landscaped grounds in what must surely be one of the best spots in the area.

The view takes in Bournemouth and Poole Bay as well as the beach at Branksome Chine. The sound of the waves breaking on the shoreline combined with the view creates an effect which is simply magical.

This development of mansion stye apartments dates from the mid 1960s and there is no doubt it was designed to attract the rich and famous of the day. Each of the apartments has a separate entrance for trades and the individual double garages in the underground car park were clearly designed to accommodate two luxury cars.

This apartment arguably has one of the best garages and there is additional surface parking. This first floor apartment extends to over 2,000 square feet and it has been updated by the current owner including a beautiful kitchen with stone tops and peninsula breakfast bar.

Branksome Cliff has a lift to all floors as well as a private footpath to the beach. There is a separate garden room overlooking the grounds and connecting via French doors. It's a great alternative to a sun balcony and it includes a kitchenette!
