The Smithy, Park Drive, Stoke-On-Trent, ST4 8AB

Asking Price £685,000

A fabulous Grade 2 listed period home in a truly unique setting at the heart of the historic Trentham Estate. The Smithy is a beautifully reimagined former blacksmith's workshop. It was first designed by Charles Barry for the Duke of Sutherland's Estate. Barry was best known for his role in rebuilding the Palace of Westminster. This is a spacious detached property, featuring a grand sitting room, separate dining room, stylish contemporary kitchen, large study, utility room and laundry. These are complemented by three double bedrooms, two with en-suites and an additional luxurious bathroom. The property is set around a central courtyard garden with all windows looking inwards and four rooms having direct access onto the private courtyard which provides plenty of space for outdoor living. The Smithy is located on a private estate next to Trentham Gardens, within strolling distance of Trentham Park Golf Club and enjoying beautiful parkland and countryside on the doorstep. A truly lovely property which is presented to a high standard throughout and caters for every requirement of twenty-first century living.
