Market Square, Axminster, Devon, EX13 5NJ

Tower House offers a flexible and well-proportioned layout across four floors, combining historic charm with practical living. Entering from Market Square, a solid wooden front door with an ornate fanlight opens directly into the kitchen—a bright and welcoming space fitted with granite worktops, a range of kitchen units, and a selection of charming free-standing dressers and units, all of which are included in the sale. Exposed wooden floorboards lead seamlessly into the main reception room, where a wood-burning stove and period fireplace create a cosy and elegant atmosphere—perfect for entertaining or relaxing. To the rear, an inner hallway—part of the elegant spiral staircase extension—features stone steps descending to the remodelled basement, and double doors opening onto the garden. The basement offers tiled flooring throughout, a cloakroom, utility/store room, and overflow space for white goods. Historically, this area likely housed the property's original kitchen. From the basement, the property's unique brick-built tunnel extends outward, leading to a covered well, a wine store, and sealed entrances to what were once connecting tunnels beneath Market Square. Modern lighting makes this space atmospheric and functional—echoing the property's layered history. The tunnel likely once led to the original stables and served as a discrete access point for deliveries. Upstairs, the first floor comprises two generous double bedrooms and a beautifully finished family bathroom with a freestanding roll-top bath. The second floor features two further well-proportioned bedrooms and a contemporary shower room, making this home ideal for families, guests, or even multi-generational living.

History & Character:

Believed to have been built c.1800 as part of Gloucester House for Dr. Symes, a local surgeon, Tower House has been steeped in history ever since. Its unique spiral staircase and a fascinating subterranean tunnel, possibly part of a network beneath the town, add an air of mystery and period intrigue. Original features such as tripartite sash windows, high ceilings, and exposed floorboards remain.

Accommodation:

The property offers versatile living with a kitchen and reception space on the ground floor and four double bedrooms across the first and second floors. The remodelled basement includes a cloakroom, utility/storage area, and access to the tunnel leading to Castle Street.

The kitchen, accessed via a Georgian front door with ornate fanlight, opens directly into the living area with fireplace and wood-burning stove. A graceful stone staircase links all floors, leading to the bedrooms and bathrooms above.

Outside:

The recently landscaped westerly garden is ideal for entertaining or relaxing, with sunset views over the Axe Valley. A mellow stone wall adds charm, with a garden store, seating area, and rear gated access via steps and tunnel.

Location:

Set in the heart of Axminster, this home is within walking distance of shops, the Minster, cafés, and the weekly farmers' market. The mainline train station provides direct services to London Waterloo and Exeter. Coastal towns including Lyme Regis and Seaton are just 6 miles away.
