GENERAL COMMENTS

Fairfield Lodge is an impressive semi-detached period home set within over three acres of gardens and grounds, offering remarkable potential. Once a prestigious residence, the property was divided into three dwellings many years ago. Cherished by the current owners for over 40 years, it now requires general refurbishment and modernisation.

The proportions are superb, with high ceilings, light and spacious rooms as well as a fabulous entrance hall with a stunning turning staircase and galleried landing above. The house is full of attractive period detail including deep skirting boards, huge sash windows, feature fireplaces and a gorgeous Regency veranda on the front of the house, all under a recently replaced slate roof.

A sweeping private driveway meanders through the grounds, revealing the house through a canopy of trees, evoking a sense of grandeur. There is ample parking, along with a garage and carport. The extensive gardens and grounds, though in need of restoration, hold great potential for revival to their former glory.

This is a unique opportunity to purchase a wonderful home full of Cornish history in such special geographical location in the county.

THE HOUSE

The accommodation comprises a charming period porch that leads into the entrance hall, where a striking turning staircase and galleried landing sit at the centre of the house. Elegant panelled walls, intricate cornicing, and doors open to the principal reception rooms. The dining room, featuring a fireplace, opens onto the front gardens and veranda, while the lounge boasts a sash window and an additional fireplace. Also on the ground floor are the kitchen, a cloakroom, and a further reception room, likely once part of the former servants' quarters.

On the first floor, the landing has a sash window overlooking the entrance driveway. There are four bedrooms, including three generously sized doubles. The spacious master bedroom benefits from two large windows with picturesque views over the front gardens. A family bathroom completes the first floor.

LOCATION

The property is located on the edge of Illogan providing great access to Tehidy Woods and the north coast at Portreath. A good range of everyday facilities are available in the nearby village of Illogan whilst Camborne and Redruth offer a more comprehensive range of facilities including main line railway stations, schools and shops. The location also provides great access via the A30 which is close by.

Now owned and managed by Cornwall Council as a Country Park, Tehidy has over 9 miles (14.5km) of paths and 250 acres of peaceful woods and lakes to explore, together with a café and a picnic area. There are five main access points including North Cliff car park, and South Drive car park.

Tehidy was formerly the estate of the Bassets, one of the four most powerful families in Cornwall with extensive lands and mineral rights in this western part of the county. Inland at Carn Brea, the prominent hill near Redruth, you can see the Basset memorial, built in 1836 to honour Sir Francis Basset (1757-1835). Visitors may stroll around the lake, explore leafy glades or wilder areas of woodland or be immersed in the rich flora and fauna. With a different type of beauty for every season, Tehidy is an enchanting place to visit all year round.

It is understood that the Basset family once owned this property.

OUTSIDE

The property is accessed via a long private driveway leading from the highway, which is shared with eight neighbouring properties. As the drive reaches Fairfield Lodge, it winds gracefully through the trees before opening up to reveal the house and a spacious gravelled parking area. In addition to ample parking, the property features a garage, a carport, a workshop, a garden store, and a wood store.

The grounds, spanning over three acres, have clearly been cherished over the years. However, they have now become somewhat overgrown and would benefit from some clearance and thoughtful landscaping. For the next owner, this presents a fantastic opportunity to restore and reimagine the gardens, bringing them back to their former glory and creating a truly stunning outdoor space.
