GENERAL COMMENTS

Trerose comprises a middle-terrace period house of the late Victorian or Edwardian era and solidly constructed of local stone but with a more recent single storey extension to the rear in cavity block and all with a natural slate or cement fibre slated roof. It would appear the property was in recent years loosely divided into two flats but is now back as a single dwelling with accommodation arranged on two floors. Many of the windows have replacement double glazing with limited heating provided by electric storage heaters to the ground floor.

In brief the accommodation comprises - on the ground floor - entrance vestibule and hallway, 2 main reception rooms, dining room, bathroom and spacious kitchen/breakfast room. On the first floor there are 3 main bedrooms, a former kitchen/4th bedroom and bathroom. Overall the accommodation warrants some refurbishment and updating.

CAMBORNE

The property is ideally located for access to Trevithick Learning Academy (Primary School) as well as the town centre and train station. Camborne is a large popular town, within easy access of Truro and West Cornwall. The town offers a wide range of amenities including schools, Cornwall College, supermarkets, public houses and a main line railway to London Paddington. The North Coast beaches of Porthtowan, Portreath, Godrevy and Gwithian are all within a short drive.

In greater detail the accommodation comprises (all measurements are approximate):
