GENERAL REMARKS AND LOCATION

Number 2 Trendeal Cottages is one of a small nucleus of properties forming the hamlet of Trendeal just over one mile north of Ladock village and set within a belt of richly wooded countryside. The cottage stands adjacent to the minor country road but has limited roadside presence due to the main aspect of the property focusing internally to its enclosed courtyard. Although being semi-detached the property has considerable independence from its neighbours being arranged on a "back to back" principle.

Trendeal is easily approached from Ladock village and signposted from the hamlet of New Mills (on the B3275). The city of Truro is only about 20 minutes by car (about 9 miles) and the A30, which can be accessed via Fraddon or Mitchell, provides easy access to all parts of the county. There is a pub, church, post office and primary school in Ladock whilst other facilities are available in neighbouring villages. The city of Truro is acknowledged to be the administrative and shopping centre of the county and boasts many of the national multiples, private and state schools and a mainline railway station.

THE COTTAGE

The cottage has been generally well maintained. It is predominantly of stone construction with the main two storey structure having a natural slated roof and the single storey section being sheeted. The south west elevation has recently been rehung with natural slate and external paintwork of the traditional doors and windows is in good order including the attractive period entrance porch. Whilst the internal accommodation is somewhat dated there are new electric heaters installed in most rooms. The layout of the accommodation is slightly unusual but there is considerable scope to remodel the format and possibly even extend into the integral garage (subject to any necessary consent).

In greater detail the accommodation comprises (all measurements are approximate):
