GENERAL COMMENTS

Copper Hill House is a substantial detached period house located at the end of a long entrance drive and surrounded by its own land. It enjoys complete privacy and fabulous, far reaching views over the surrounding countryside with the sea in the distance. It is thought to have been built around 1850 and originally the offices of the Copper Hill mine, which had a short, but profitable lifespan. It is believed that at this time, the property was owned by Sir Redvers Buller who won a Victoria Cross during the Zulu War.

Copper Hill house is a very large house with well proportioned rooms, extremely high ceilings and huge Georgian style windows affording plenty of natural light, the accommodation extends to approximately 3,500 sq ft. There are many wonderful period features including herringbone small tiled floor in the entrance porch, ornate turning staircase, tall rounded sash stair window, traditional sash windows with working shutters, deep ornate moulded ceiling cornices and feature open fireplaces. Not surprisingly the house is Grade II Listed. The accommodation includes a fine entrance hall, two superb reception rooms, dining room, fabulous live-in kitchen with Aga and pantry, laundry room, boot room, shower room and cloakroom on the ground floor with four bedrooms upstairs. The master and guest bedrooms have en suite shower rooms.

Large gardens surround the house which enjoy complete privacy and far reaching views over the surrounding countryside with the sea in the distance. Large lawns are interspersed with many shrubs, plants and trees and a sunken south facing terraced garden provides plenty of sitting out space. A short distance away is the magnificent stable yard with four stables, tack room, further outbuildings and even a sand school. The land extends to approximately 5.5 acres and within the field is a substantial field shelter with two further stables. There is a detached garage/workshop and the mobile home (currently lived in by a family member) is included in the sale.
