GENERAL COMMENTS

Cedar Haven Farm is a detached, single-storey residence of enduring appeal, set within a private plot extending to just over an acre and held within the same family ownership since its construction in the late 1950s. Carefully maintained and sympathetically updated, the property offers an exceptional opportunity to acquire a much-cherished home with scope for further enhancement.

The accommodation is both spacious and versatile, well suited to family living or those seeking generous lateral space in a peaceful setting. Principal reception rooms are well proportioned and light-filled, enjoying attractive views across the established gardens and surrounding countryside. Currently arranged with three bedrooms, the layout offers flexibility and clear potential to create a fourth, if required.

A particular feature is the substantial snooker (Hobby) room, a highly adaptable space offering considerable versatility. It presents excellent potential as an additional bedroom suite, home office, studio or annexe-style accommodation, subject to the necessary consents.

A private driveway provides ample parking and leads to a garage with useful storage or workshop space. The gardens are mature and thoughtfully arranged, with sweeping lawns, established borders and specimen planting creating privacy and year-round interest.

Beyond the formal gardens lies a small paddock, enhancing the property's semi-rural appeal and providing valuable amenity land. To the side of the property sits a static caravan, offering further potential for alternative use or development, subject to the necessary planning permissions. The property is offered for sale as a whole; however, consideration may be given to purchasers who do not require the static caravan and paddock, as these elements could be retained by the family.

Cedar Haven Farm represents a rare opportunity to acquire a well-maintained home of character and flexibility, set within generous grounds and offering significant future potential.

WHEAL ROSE

Wheal Rose is a small rural hamlet set within open countryside, conveniently positioned for both the north Cornish coastline and the county's principal towns. Porthtowan Beach is within easy reach, while the sought-after coastal village of St Agnes offers a range of independent shops, cafés and everyday amenities. Wider facilities, including supermarkets, healthcare and schooling, are available in the surrounding towns.

The area is well regarded for its access to outdoor pursuits, with nearby coastal footpaths, bridleways and cycle trails providing direct access to the surrounding countryside and coastline. The beaches along this stretch of coast are popular for surfing and water sports, with a number of well-regarded eateries and public houses close by.

Despite its rural setting, Wheal Rose is highly accessible. The A30 is easily reached, providing direct links across Cornwall and connecting to Truro, Redruth and beyond. Mainline rail services are available from Redruth and Truro, with direct services to London Paddington, and Newquay Airport offers regular domestic and European flights.

Wheal Rose offers a practical and well-connected setting, combining countryside surroundings with convenient access to the coast and key transport links.

REDRUTH

Redruth offers a wide range of facilities which includes shops, bars and restaurants as well as junior and secondary schooling and a mainline railway station connecting with London Paddington. More comprehensive shopping can be found in Truro.

TRURO

Truro is renowned for its excellent shopping centre, fine selection of restaurants, bars, private and state schools and main line railway link to London (Paddington). The Hall for Cornwall is also a popular venue providing all year round entertainment and other cultural facilities include the Royal Cornwall Museum and the historic Cathedral.
