About the property

An attractive and well proportioned double bedroom, ground floor garden flat . Recently decorated through out, the flat is located in a converted period building in the ever popular Poets Corner.

Accessing the property through a communal hallway leads into the living room with a large bay window flooding the space with natural light, its west aspect making the most of the afternoon and evening sun. Beyond the living room a central hallway leads to a spacious bedroom with French Doors that open on to the out door space.

Following the hallway finds the large, well appointed kitchen, with enough space to accommodate a good sized dining table. The modern shower room is to the rear, along side the back door that leads to a good garden space.

Well positioned close to all the amenities of Poets Corner; shops, cafes, bakeries, pubs and well rated schools. Aldrington train station is moments away as well as good bus routes taking you quickly into central Brighton.
