Great House Farm

The Grade II listed Great House Farm has been extensively refurbished by LivEco Homes, the award-winning developer creating a collection of smaller, sustainable eco homes on the former farm site on the edge of Cardiff.

Dating from the late 16th century (circa 1580–1600), Great House Farm is a remarkable example of a traditional Welsh farmhouse. Historically, the property once owned all the surrounding land stretching as far as Culverhouse Cross. Alongside the nearby St. Michael's Church, which dates from AD 1254, it was one of the most prominent buildings in the local area. Both landmarks were first recorded on maps in 1776.

Following its careful restoration, the farmhouse will become the largest property within the LivEco development. Its preservation not only protects an important piece of local history but also provides the new community with a strong architectural heritage. Once derelict, Great House Farm has now been thoughtfully brought back to life and will once again stand as one of the area's most significant homes. EPC rating: D.
