Inglefield Avenue

Set behind a traditional forecourt and handsome bay fronted façade, this elegant period terrace offers beautifully balanced accommodation across three floors, combining retained character with thoughtful improvements that suit modern family life. Rich in original features including tiled flooring, picture rails, high ceilings and timber floors, the house has a warm and welcoming feel from the moment you step inside.

The ground floor flows effortlessly from the impressive bay fronted sitting room, centred around a working wood burning stove, into a generous dining room linked by a wide open archway that creates a wonderful sense of space while retaining the character of two distinct reception rooms. To the rear, the kitchen is flooded with natural light from patio doors and side windows, offering marble work surfaces, a Rangemaster cooker, integrated appliances and ample storage, with direct access to the garden.

Arranged over the upper floors are four well proportioned bedrooms, including a superb principal bedroom with its own en suite shower room. A stylish family bathroom serves the first floor, while the converted loft provides an excellent fourth bedroom or home office, complete with a second en suite WC. Outside, the enclosed rear garden leads to an exceptionally useful double garage with electric roller shutter door, accessed from a private rear lane, a rare and highly desirable feature in this part of Cardiff.

Situated in the heart of Heath, one of Cardiff's most sought after residential districts, the property enjoys easy access to a superb range of independent cafés, shops and everyday amenities. Heath Park is within walking distance, providing extensive green space, sports facilities and woodland walks, while the University Hospital of Wales is nearby. The area is particularly well regarded for its excellent local schools, both English and Welsh medium, making it a popular choice for families.
