Set along one of Cathays' popular residential streets on the cusp of Roath, this beautifully presented mid-terrace home combines traditional craftsmanship with a warm, inviting atmosphere. Behind its handsome red brick façade lies a thoughtfully restored interior where period features meet tasteful modern updates. Each room has been sympathetically decorated in a palette of soft, neutral tones that accentuate the home's natural light and sense of calm. The open-plan living and dining spaces create a natural flow ideal for both daily life and entertaining, while the well-appointed kitchen opens directly to a pretty rear garden, offering a peaceful outdoor retreat.

Upstairs, two elegant double bedrooms retain their period charm with exposed brickwork and original flooring, balanced by the comfort of a spacious, well-fitted bathroom. The home's proportions, natural light, and coherent sense of design make it a truly special residence in this sought-after Cardiff neighbourhood.

Bruce Street lies within walking distance of local cafés, independent shops, and the green open spaces of Bute Park and Roath Park. Families and professionals alike benefit from nearby well-regarded schools and community amenities, making this an ideal location for those seeking both convenience and character in equal measure. Roath is one of Cardiff's most sought-after neighbourhoods, blending vibrant city living with a relaxed community feel. It's known for its tree-lined streets, characterful Victorian homes, and thriving café culture, with independent shops and restaurants adding charm and convenience.
