St. Anthony Road

This stylishly presented semi-detached home in Heath balances characterful detail with a well-planned rear extension, creating a house that feels polished, comfortable and easy to live in. The entrance hall retains warm parquet flooring, a detail repeated in the bay-fronted living room, where fitted alcove shelving and a curved bay radiator give the space a calm, welcoming feel.

To the rear, the house opens into an impressive kitchen, dining and sitting room designed for everyday life as much as entertaining. Rooflights, a side window and broad bi-fold doors draw natural light across the tiled floor, while quartz worktops, a central island with breakfast seating and integrated appliances keep the kitchen crisp and practical. A gas fire brings focus to the sitting area, with the garden forming a natural backdrop beyond.

Upstairs are three bedrooms and a smart four-piece bathroom with a separate bath and shower. Outside, the generous rear garden is enclosed and established with mature planting and fruit trees, while a detached garage, further storage and driveway parking for two to three vehicles add useful flexibility. The scale of the garden may also appeal to buyers considering its future potential, subject to the necessary consents.

St Anthony Road sits in a well-established part of Heath, close to the University Hospital of Wales and the open green spaces of Heath Park. Birchgrove's local shops and everyday amenities are within easy reach, while Roath Park and its lake provide one of Cardiff's best-loved places for walking and recreation. Nearby schools include Birchgrove Primary and Ton-yr-Ywen Primary, with buyers advised to confirm current catchment arrangements with Cardiff Council. Heath High Level and Heath Low Level stations provide rail connections towards Cardiff city centre, complemented by local bus routes and convenient road access across North Cardiff.
