Nestled in the heart of Barkisland, this beautifully preserved 17th-century cottage combines historic character with modern comfort. The property features two well-proportioned double bedrooms, each benefitting from its own private ensuite, making it ideal for professional sharers or those seeking flexible living space.

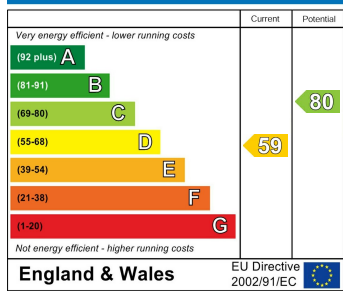

Retaining its period charm throughout, the cottage offers exposed beams, thick stone walls, and a warm, inviting atmosphere. A cosy living area and well-equipped kitchen provide comfortable day-to-day living, while the peaceful village location ensures a tranquil setting with countryside walks on the doorstep.

Perfectly positioned for access to local amenities and commuter routes, this unique home blends heritage and convenience in a highly sought-after Calderdale village.
