IF YOU LIVED HERE...

The property has a warm, established feel, with a brick façade and leaded windows that add plenty of character. A recessed entrance enhances the sense of welcome, creating a first impression that feels settled and quietly confident.

Inside, the ground floor is arranged around a combined kitchen and reception room that works comfortably as the heart of the home. Wood flooring runs throughout, giving a sense of continuity, while the layout allows for cooking, dining and relaxing to sit naturally alongside one another. A pared-back backdrop provides an easy canvas, and glazed doors draw the eye through to the conservatory beyond.

The conservatory extends the living environment beautifully, with wide windows inviting in natural light and offering a gentle transition between indoors and out. Its proportions lend themselves to a variety of uses, whether as an additional seating area, dining spot or place to unwind, while maintaining a strong connection to the main room.

Upstairs, the bedroom feels balanced and comfortable, finished with wood flooring and a bright, composed feel. Built-in wardrobes sit neatly within the room, keeping the overall look streamlined while leaving flexibility in how the room is used.

Completing the home is a bathroom finished in pale tiling and soft-toned walls, giving it a clean and comfortable atmosphere. A window brings in daylight, and the bath with an overhead rain shower provides a relaxed, everyday finish that suits the tone of the property well.

Life here is closely connected to nature, with the wide, open landscapes of Wanstead Flats forming part of Epping Forest and bringing a rare sense of openness to the setting. Walks across the flats naturally lead to Tamping Grounds, well known for its quality coffee and relaxed atmosphere. In one direction, Forest Gate Arches host a growing mix of independent traders alongside destinations such as Joyau, celebrated for its French-influenced small plates and strong wine list, and The Wanstead Tap, a popular spot for craft beer and informal evenings. Heading the other way, Wanstead High Street offers an additional choice of shops and amenities, easily reached when needed.

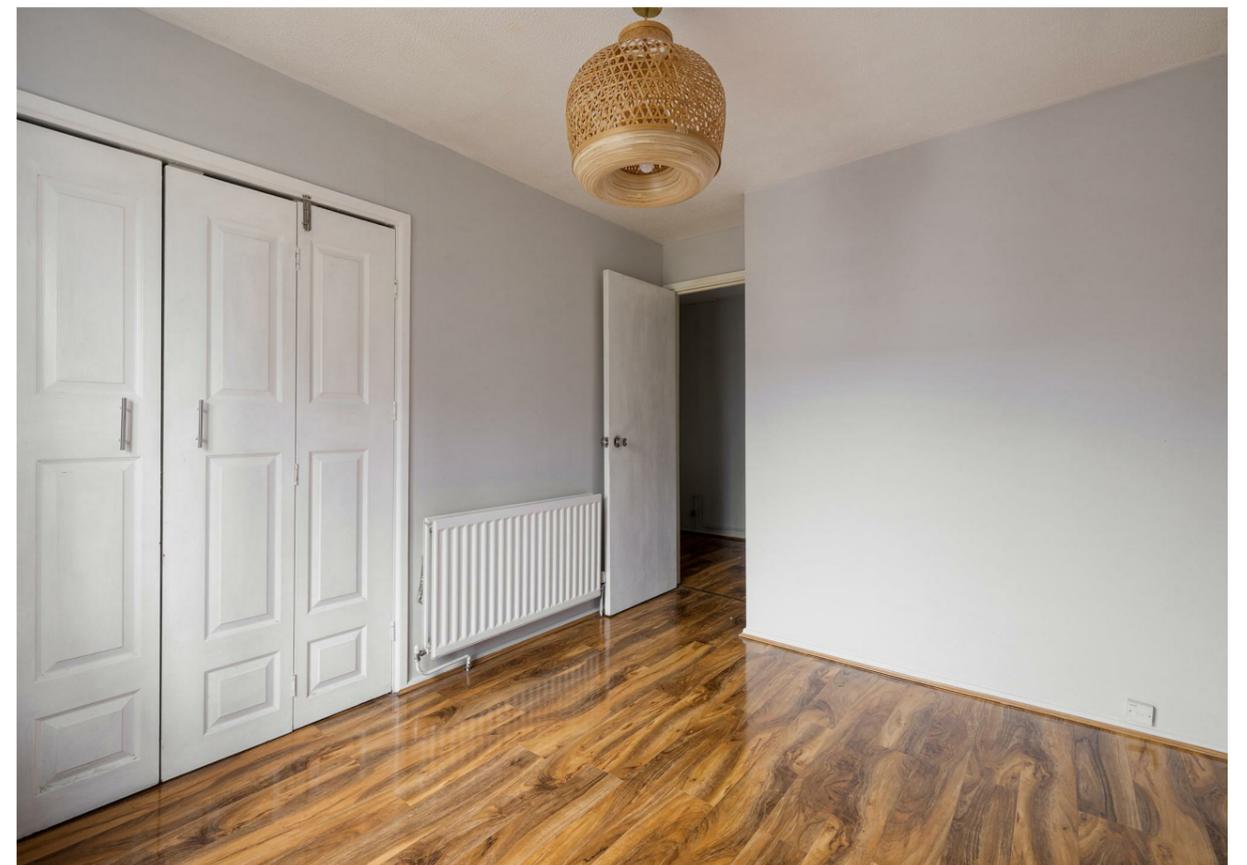

WHAT ELSE?

Transport connections are well covered, with several stations easily reached by bus in around 10 minutes. Wanstead Station offers Central line services into the City and West End, while Forest Gate Station provides swift access across London via the Elizabeth line. Wanstead Park Station completes the mix with Overground routes linking East London and beyond.
