We have tried to make sure that these particulars are accurate but, to a large extent, we have to rely on what the seller tells us about the property. Once you find the property you want to buy, you will need to carry out more investigations into the property than it is practical or reasonable for an estate agent to do when preparing sales particulars. For example, we have not carried out any kind of survey of the property to look for structural defects and would advise any homebuyer to obtain a surveyor's report before exchanging contracts. If you do not have your own surveyor, we would be pleased to recommend one. We have not checked whether any equipment in the property (such as central heating) is in working order and would advise homebuyers to check this. You should also instruct a solicitor to investigate all legal matters relating to the property (e.g. title, planning permission, etc) as these are specialist matters in which estate agents are not qualified. Your solicitor will also agree with the seller what items (e.g. carpets, curtains, etc) will be included in the sale.

Freehold

4 Bedroom 2 Reception 2 Bathroom

£649,950

Set in the sought after village of Willingdon, this well proportioned four bedroom detached house combines original charm with flexible living space, ideal for family life. The property offers a generous driveway for up to six vehicles, a garage with side access and an impressive 80ft rear garden with a large shed perfect for outdoor use all year round. Inside, the welcoming entrance hall leads to a bay fronted dining room, a bright living room opening into the conservatory and a separate study/utility room. The large kitchen features a vaulted ceiling and breakfast bar, offering plenty of space for cooking, dining and gathering. Upstairs, there are four spacious double bedrooms, all retaining their original wooden flooring. The main bedroom includes an En Suite, while the remaining rooms are served by a modern family bathroom. Character touches such as the original servant bells and period woodwork add charm throughout, giving this home a unique sense of history.
