We have tried to make sure that these particulars are accurate but, to a large extent, we have to rely on what the seller tells us about the property. Once you find the property you want to buy, you will need to carry out more investigations into the property than it is practical or reasonable for an estate agent to do when preparing sales particulars. For example, we have not carried out any kind of survey of the property to look for structural defects and would advise any homebuyer to obtain a surveyor's report before exchanging contracts. If you do not have your own surveyor, we would be pleased to recommend one. We have not checked whether any equipment in the property (such as central heating) is in working order and would advise homebuyers to check this. You should also instruct a solicitor to investigate all legal matters relating to the property (e.g. title, planning permission, etc) as these are specialist matters in which estate agents are not qualified. Your solicitor will also agree with the seller what items (e.g. carpets, curtains, etc) will be included in the sale.

 GUIDE PRICE £575,000 - £595,000 ***

A rare opportunity to acquire this individually styled three bedroom detached home, lovingly built by the current owner's family in the 1960s and being sold for the first time. Situated in the highly favoured Upperton location, the property offers well proportioned and versatile accommodation throughout, including two generous reception rooms, a bright and spacious lounge, separate dining room leading through to a delightful sun room overlooking the rear garden and a well equipped kitchen. A ground floor bedroom/study and shower room/WC provide flexible living arrangements, ideal for multi generational use or home working. Upstairs, the property features two further bedrooms and a cloakroom/WC, with attractive far-reaching views towards the South Downs from the rear. Outside, the home benefits from well-maintained gardens to both the front and rear, a private driveway and garage. Additional features include gas central heating and double glazing throughout. Offered chain free, this much loved family home presents an excellent opportunity for buyers seeking a property with character, history and potential in a sought after residential setting.
