This captivating three-bedroom Victorian terraced house is a special find. Beyond the original front door lies a bright and inviting hallway with stairs leading directly to the upper floor. To your left, you'll find the impressive through living/dining room, adorned with a large bay window, original oak flooring, and a cosy working fireplace. Throughout, you'll appreciate the delightful period features such as elegant coving and sophisticated wall panelling. The second room is painted a dark blue, offering a division between the spaces.

Towards the rear, a modern kitchen with a chic tiled splashback connects to a large, south-west-facing garden. This peaceful outdoor space offers uninterrupted green views, fruitful trees, and an allotment with a greenhouse, perfect for enjoying the sun throughout the day.

The first floor houses a bright primary bedroom with two windows, fitted wardrobes, and a banana leaf-wallpapered feature wall. The second bedroom includes an original fireplace, while the third, currently utilised as an office, offers garden views. A well-appointed bathroom completes this level.

The property offers significant potential for future expansion, including a substantial loft space and a side return. The garden's length allows for rear extensions without compromising outdoor space, as seen in other homes on the street.

Situated in a peaceful neighbourhood with welcoming neighbours and an active community, this home boasts an unbeatable location. Enjoy four parks within a ten-minute walk, Francis Road's shops and new Kerb market, and new eateries on Tilbury Road. Local amenities include a cricket ground, a leisure centre, gyms, a swimming pool, and soft play areas. Stratford's Olympic Park and Walthamstow Village are both about 15 minutes away.

Connectivity is excellent: Leyton Midland Overground is 0.4 miles away and Leyton Tube Station is 0.7 miles away, with resident permit parking available.
