LOCATION

Charnock House is a distinguished Grade II listed residence, dating from circa 1700 with later 18th-century additions, forming an important part of the historic streetscape along Church Street in the heart of Gamlingay. Constructed in red brick beneath a traditional plain tiled roof, the property displays classic period detailing, with its attractive yet subtly asymmetrical façade reflecting the evolution of the house over time and contributing to its individual character and architectural significance. The property offers extensive accommodation arranged over three floors, combining a wealth of period character with a layout suited to modern living. Externally, Charnock House is further enhanced by a significant range of ancillary buildings, including a substantial detached brick barn, drying house and additional outbuildings, all of which form part of the property's wider historic interest. These provide excellent versatility for a variety of uses, whether for storage, workshop space, home working or potential ancillary accommodation, subject to the necessary consents. The gardens are a defining feature, offering both formal areas and a beautifully enclosed walled garden, creating a high degree of privacy and structure rarely found within a central village setting. The overall plot, combined with the arrangement of buildings, provides a particularly special and self-contained environment. Gamlingay is a highly regarded and well-served village, offering a strong range of local amenities including shops, public houses, a pharmacy and schooling, alongside a well-established community feel. For commuters, the property is ideally positioned, with nearby Sandy and Biggleswade providing mainline railway services into the city of London, and excellent road links via the A1 and A428 offering access to Cambridge, Bedford and Milton Keynes. The property also falls within the catchment area for the highly regarded Comberton Village College.
