Beechcroft

The house combines character with practical family living. At the heart is a spacious kitchen with flagstone floors, modern cabinetry, a Smeg cooker and a separate utility room. Living spaces are well balanced: a large family room with garden access, a cosy sitting room with wood burner, and an easy flow through to the dining room and conservatory, making a generous space for entertaining.

Upstairs, the landing opens onto three double bedrooms. The principal room is especially versatile, with windows on two sides, an en suite bathroom and plenty of space for a dressing area or walk-in wardrobe. The other two doubles share a family bathroom, with useful storage built in along the landing.

Outside

The house sits back from a quiet country lane, screened by mature trees and shrubs. A gated drive provides plenty of parking, with a small lawn by the family room. To the rear, the enclosed garden is mainly lawn, edged with established planting, and wraps around to meet the garage. A patio sits beside the conservatory, with a hot tub tucked in behind.

The double garage has a loft with windows and its own access to the garden. There is scope to convert the garage into an annexe (STP)

Location

Stoke Row is a classic Chilterns village with a strong sense of community, country pubs and miles of countryside walks. The village primary school is well regarded, with good state options in Henley and a wide choice of independents close by, including The Oratory, Cranford House and Pangbourne College.

Henley-on-Thames is only a short drive away, offering riverside charm, great schools and the buzz of a market town. Alongside strong state options, there are well-regarded independents such as Rupert House and St Mary's, with Shiplake College, Queen Anne's and Reading Blue Coat nearby for older students. Between Stoke Row and Henley, families get a mix of village life, excellent education and easy access to town.
